LBJ Library Suit

Post 5-19-74

AUSTIN, Tex.—University of Texas regents have sued the contractor that built the Lyndon B. Johnson Library to require repairs of defects in the building.

The suit names T. C. Bateson Construction Co. of Dallas and the firm's bonding company, Federal Insurance Co., as defendants.

The regents' petition says a sealing material pulled away from the exterior stone in several places, allowing moisture to accumulate and causing "displacement following rain and freeze periods.